It's Not Too Late For An Awesome Summer In The States - Special Offers And Extended Deadlines On Working Holidays From BUNAC, Plus Last Chance To Enter Travel Internship Competition

London, 2 April 2015: Great news if you are looking for a CV-boosting summer adventure across the Pond! BUNAC has extended the booking deadlines for its Work America and Summer Camp Exchange programmes, and is offering a discount of £100 off its Work America Ultimate package. US employers are still recruiting for summer 2015, with vacancies in tourism and hospitality in great US vacation spots: 70 jobs are currently available at Casino Beach amusement park in New Jersey and Busch Gardens in Williamsburg, Virginia; Skype interviews for BUNAC applicants will be taking place on 10th and 12th April. Plus, there's still time to enter BUNAC's latest competition to win a two-month, all-expenses paid Travel Internship. Welcome news for students who have been too bogged down with exam revision to finalise their plans: 13 April is now the final deadline to register for a summer in the States and to enter the competition.

The Travel Internship competition will allow one lucky winner to spend two months travelling across North and Central America, interviewing participants on BUNAC working holiday programmes. Armed with a video camera (supplied by BUNAC) to document every step of the trip, the winner will blog, vlog and network their way across the continent.

You could be on a lakeside summer camp in New Hampshire one week, interviewing a Camp Counsellor working with kids, then chatting to a lifeguard on a Californian beach the next week and meeting a receptionist in a Canadian mountain resort the week after that. Then it's off to find out more about the sea turtle conservation projects in Costa Rica and the data monitoring and recording carried out by volunteers against an exotic backdrop of rainforests and endangered wildlife.

The competition prize includes all flights, accommodation, comprehensive medical insurance, plus a marketing internship in BUNAC's London office afterwards to write up the trip for the BUNAC website. For further details and to enter the competition, visit <http://www.bunac.org/travelcomp>

BUNAC's Work America programme allows full-time UK university students (including those in their final year) to discover the real America, gain valuable international work experience and essential life skills. With a J-1 visa, students are entitled to spend up to four months during their summer vacation working and travelling in the States.

The Work America Essentials package costs from £529 and covers access to BUNAC's online Job Zone, job-hunting advice, insurance, visa paperwork and comprehensive assistance, pre-departure orientation, access to group flights, plus 24/7 support throughout the programme. The Work America Ultimate package has been discounted to £629 and offers all of the above, plus the added security of having everything in place prior to departure, with free assistance to secure a pre-arranged job and long-term accommodation.

Participants can register online with BUNAC, or call 033 3999 7516 for personal advice from a member of the BUNAC team.

Summer Camp Exchange USA gives young adults the opportunity to spend eight to 10 weeks between May and September working with children on camps in stunning natural settings. It's an ideal way to fund your travels around the United States, enhance your CV and make lifelong friends with fellow camp counsellors from around the world.

Sports coaches, trainee teachers, students and other young people aged 19+ who are experienced in teaching activities to children are encouraged to apply. Those with a background in coaching popular activities like archery, ceramics, gymnastics, horse riding, rock climbing, tennis, and water sports are especially welcome!

The price for Summer Camp Exchange USA is from £549, which covers placement at a US camp, full visa support, return transatlantic flights from London, transfers, food and accommodation at camp, medical insurance and orientation.
